Commencement exercises for the 11th graduating class of Southern Illinois University School of Medicine will be held Sunday, May 5. Forty-five new physicians will graduate during the ceremony, which will be held at 1:30 p.m. in the Sangamon State University Auditorium in Springfield.

Robert J. Glaser, M.D., director for medical science of the Lucille P. Markey Charitable Trust, Menlo Park, Cal., will deliver the convocation address. Glaser, a former member of the Alpha Omega Alpha Honor Medical Society board, has been editor of its official publication, "The Pharos," since 1962.

He has held a number of academic appointments, including vice-president for Medical Affairs and Dean at both Stanford University and at the University of Colorado School of Medicine. And he has served as vice-president for the American Academy of Arts and Science and is a former chairman of the Executive Council and Assembly of the Association of American Medical Colleges.

Deane R. Doolen, assistant dean for student affairs, will present the class for degrees. SIU President Albert Somit, Ph.D., will confer the degrees, while Richard H. Moy, M.D., dean and provost of the School of Medicine, will award the diplomas.

Following a tradition established by the first class in 1975, the class of 1985 will honor three of their instructors during the commencement: George J. Taylor, M.D., clinical associate professor of medicine, who will deliver the invocation; David C. Good, M.D., assistant professor of medicine, who will read the Hippocratic Oath, and Robert E. Merrill, M.D., professor of pediatrics, who will hood the graduates.

In addition, the class has selected Shirley Jean McGlinn, visiting instructor in MEDPREP, as Teacher of the Year for her contributions during their first year at Carbondale.
